Portable Long Service Leave Benefits for the Construction Industry - Contractors Dec 2010

In February 2005 Parliament passed the Construction Industry Long Service Leave and Benefits Act (the Act) enabling building and construction workers in the Northern Territory to benefit from the introduction of a portable long service leave scheme. The Act was passed after consultation with industry.

The scheme came into effect on 1 July 2005. A Government appointed Board is responsible for administering the scheme. The Board called NT Build consists of industry members who represent organisations that represent the interests of both employees and employers.

What is portable long service leave?

The new scheme enables contractors to qualify for long service leave based on their service to the industry rather than service with the one employer. The portability extends across state borders under the National Reciprocal Agreement.

Contractors long service leave is paid from the scheme.

What are the benefits?

A registered contractor can be credited with a maximum of 260 days of qualifying service each financial year. A total of 6.5 days long service leave credit is accrued for each 260 days.

Once a contractor has accrued 65 days long service leave credits (ie; 10 years service), they can apply to be paid a long service leave benefit.

Contractors need to accrue a further 32.5 days long service leave credit before they can apply for further benefits.

The Act contains special provisions for contractors who die, retire or cease to perform construction work.

Employment Interstate

Every State and Territory in Australia has a portable long service leave scheme operating within their construction industry.

Under the National Reciprocal Agreement, registered Northern Territory contractors are able to have service accrued in any State or Territory combined towards a long service leave entitlement.

Eligibility

To be eligible for registration under the scheme a contractor must:

- Provide "labour only" contractor services. Contractors who supply materials or services while supplying labour are not eligible.
- Be engaged as a contractor to carry out construction work in the NT.
- Work for the private sector i.e. not for the government or a statutory corporation.

Construction work

For the purposes of this scheme, construction work includes commercial, domestic, industrial and civil construction work. Construction work covers contractors performing repair, maintenance, extension and demolition work.

For more information on the definition of construction work, please visit our website – www.ntbuild.com.au or call NT Build on 1300 795 855.

Registration

To register under the scheme, a contractor should complete the Contractor Registration Application Form and return it to NT Build's office. Once registered:

- A contractor return form will be sent out to you every 6 months. You will provide the amount of service days accrued in the 6 month return period.
- Contractors will receive an Annual Statement at the end of each financial year providing details of service credited.

Contractors that also employ workers must register as an employer. To register as an employer please complete the Employer Registration Application, which can be obtained through the NT Build website www.ntbuild.com.au or by calling 1300 795 855.

Completing the Contractor Return

As a labour only sub contractor you will be required to complete your own contractor return. To help you complete the return please see the back of this brochure. If you have any further enquiries please call the NT Build office on 1300 795 855.
